

Gretchen P. Fox

Founder and President
Fox RPM Corp.

Gretchen Fox, President, founded Fox RPM Corp. in 1988 to manage the relocation of the 1,000-employee law firm of Ropes & Gray. Capitalizing on an emerging and un-served market opportunity, the company grew through a commitment to quality and service specializing in project management around moves, renovations, and reorganizations.

Over time, Fox RPM has grown in scope, including new business areas such as facilities management, design and master planning; and in scale with branch offices now operating in Boston, Buffalo, Providence, New York, and Washington, DC. After nearly 20 years of continued growth and success, the one-person firm has become a 70+person practice.

In 1999, Gretchen Fox was recognized as Business Woman of the Year by New England Women Business Owners (NEWBO) and the Women's Business Enterprise National Council (WBENC) named Gretchen a Woman-Owned Business Star in 2003. In 2007, Fox RPM was recognized for the third consecutive year as one of the Top 100 women-led businesses in Massachusetts.
