

Karen Gray

Director of Retail and Global Development
EILEEN FISHER

Karen Gray is the Director of Retail and Global Development and also a member of the Leadership Forum for clothing designer EILEEN FISHER. In leading retail stores, Karen's role has been to foster an environment supportive of the company's values and to ensure the quality of customer and brand experience. Her responsibilities include store operations, buying, retail marketing, customer service, and global development. In her years in this role she has supported the growth of retail from 16 to 57 stores. As a member of the cross functional Leadership Forum, her responsibilities include a role in company leadership. Karen is also member of the Real Estate team (selecting new store locations), Culture Concept team and leads the company's Global expansion. EILEEN FISHER will open its first stores in Canada and London in 2011.

Karen came to EILEEN FISHER 16 years ago following work in the financial services industry as well as women's and children's apparel. Her educational background includes a B.A. from Smith College (1978), an M.B.A. from Columbia University Graduate School of Business (1981), and a MPOD from Case Western Reserve University (2007).
